Pidgeon, Jr. et al., U.S. Patent 4,912,721, Filed Apr. 29, 1988, Patent Date Mar. 27, 1990:

This important patent describes a system for sending digital data on a cable TV system using direct sequence code division multiple access. The patent discloses synchronized generation of pseudorandom noise sequences which are multiplied by the data to be spread in an exclusive OR gate. The result is then multiplied by a carrier in another exclusive OR gate. A microprocessor controls the power output of the final stage power amplifier and turns the carrier oscillator on and off and controls generation of the PN sequence. The microprocessor also supplies the data to be spread to the first exclusive OR gate.

Beyers, II et al., U.S. Patent 5,235,619, Filed March 20, 1990, Patent Date Aug. 10, 1993:

Teaches a system for upstream communication from multiple users on a cable TV system to a billing computer process at the head end using code division multiple access. Billing information for events purchased by a subscriber is collected in this manner. Upstream data is sent by selecting a plurality of data channels over which to send upstream data, selecting a plurality of times to transmit at least one of which is random for transmitting over the plurality of channels, and transmitting the data message over each of the plurality of data channels at the transmit times.
